Tips

1. Include quantifiable results in your narrative (e.g., monetary savings, a new process that saves a specific amount of time, number or percentage of students being better informed or prepared).

2. Include tangible examples of how the individual, team or supervisor went above and beyond the daily responsibilities of the job.

3. Include testimonials and quotes from others of how the individual or team models the standards of excellence or behaviors.

4. Avoid jargon and acronyms. Members of the Selection Committee may not be familiar with them.

5. For team nominations, highlight how each individual specifically contributed to the team in a significant way.

6. Select references that will strengthen the nomination. When requesting references, include a copy of the nomination to assist in the letter composition. The Models Project Team will accept the first two reference letters received.

7. When you send forms to Model Supervisor nominees or individuals managers, indicate a due date that provides sufficient time for the forms to be sent to the Model Project Team by the nomination deadline. Send reference letter and form requests early in your application process.

8. If reference letters aren’t received by the time you enter the nomination online, send them to models@hr.upenn.edu. Include the nominee or team name and award type in the subject line of the email so that they can be collated with the rest of your nomination.

9. Work with others to submit a nomination. Doing so allows getting the benefit of obtaining other perspectives. One person will submit the nomination on behalf of any joint efforts.

10. Be mindful of the nomination deadline. Nomination applications won’t be accepted after the nomination deadline in order to allow the Models Project Team to complete the selection process on time.
